I Still Remember

The April twilight waned to dark,
And every star struck a spark
From high infinity to light
The way you came to me that night.

And every lilac laughed and blew
A lovely fragrant kiss to you.
And all the stars flowers in the grass
Trembled to hear your quick feet pass.

Long, long ago another trail
Your feet have found and followed
And those shining stars and far and wide
Since love and hope with you are gone.

And yet when by my darkening pane
The lilacs whisper in the rain,
My lonely candle's flickering gleam,
Still lights my unforgetten dream.

And sometimes in the village street
There sounds an echo hushed and fleet;
Since doubt is dead, with passion's pride,
I think I hear your feet outside.

And when the April gust is spent,
And dusk with drowsy darkness
Lies
Where moonbeams spread their silver patch.

I hear your fingers on the latch.
Put when I fling the bolt and stand
Groping to find and touch your hand

Oh, then I know outside my door
But night and silence everywhere!

Choral Club

Rehearsal

The Middlesboro Choral club had 20 of its members out at rehearsal last night, including two new members, Miss Julia Heil and Miss Josephine Breeding. Some of the arias, trios, and choruses of the oratorio Elijah are to be rehearsed in the near future, with the other numbers now in preparation. It is hoped to have a public performance shortly before or after the holidays, so all members are being urged to attend every rehearsal.

Mrs. O. R. Austin

Hostess Today

Mrs. O. R. Austin entertained with a sewing party at her home this afternoon. About 30 guests were present. The house was decorated in fall flowers. A musical contest was the feature of the afternoon. Out-of-town guests were: Miss Leaty Locke of Decatur, Tenn.; and Miss Cleo Wilson of Nashville, Tenn.

Mrs. C. L. Carr

Hostess

Mrs. C. L. Carr entertained her five hundred club and guests at her home in Bryson last night. A salad course was served. Guests were: Mrs. R. L. Ralston, Mr. Maxey and Bob Ralston, Lawrence Haynes and Dr. Harrison of Fork Ridge; Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Keeney, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Billingsly and Allen Jennings of Bryson; Miss Cox and Mrs. A. H. Wright of Middlesboro; Miss Eula Gray Clouds, of Cloud Ky.; and Mr. Murner of Haintrant.

Shower Yesterday

for Mrs. McClure

Mrs. W. K. McClure was honoree at a surprise shower given for her at Kentenwa Hall yesterday at the regular meeting of the Missionary Society. The hall was attractively decorated in autumn flowers. In the corner, under an arch, beautifully formed of fresh flowers was placed a chair draped in white, on which Mrs. McClure sat. The shower gifts were brought to her in a little wagon decorated in yellow and white flowers and drawn by Muriel Hubbard and Mildred Pridemore. Preceding the shower the regular program was given. Mrs. D. Z. Gibson, president of the society, was in charge of the business meeting. Mrs. L. I. Humphrey gave the Bible lesson. Mrs. Joe Smith gave an interesting paper on "Orientals in America," and Mrs. C. K. Brosheer gave the bulletin of missionary news. The shower, a complete surprise to Mrs. McClure, followed. About fifty women were present. Brick ice cream and cake were served.

Mrs. F. R. Whalin

Entertains

Mrs. F. R. Whalin entertained a host of friends at her lovely home on West Cumberland avenue yesterday afternoon. The house was attractively decorated in autumn flowers. Features of the afternoon were two contests, an author contest in which Mrs. Warren P. Rash won the prize and a picture contest in which Mrs. W. S. Anderson was the winner. Mrs. Whalin was assisted in serving by Mrs. H. H. Overton, Mrs. Shultz Gibson and Mrs. C. A. Blackburn. The invited guests were: Mrs. J. T. Alderson, Mrs. W. R. Pool, Mrs. Zanna Erwin, of Harrogate; Mrs. W. D. Motch, Mrs. T. C. Zimmerman, Mrs. W. E. Frazer, Mrs. M. S. Callison, Mrs. D. G. TAX COMMISSION REPORT IS MADE

Methods in Managing Taxing Problems of Kentucky Shown Governor Tomorrow

Associated Press

FRANKFORT, Ky., Oct. 12.—Methods followed by the State Tax Commission in managing the taxing of Kentucky are the subject of commendation in the report of the department submitted to Governor Edwin Morrow yesterday by Henry E. James, state inspector and examiner. The report, which was prepared by R. E. Keown, assistant inspector, covers the period from March 1, 1921 to June 30, 1923.

The commission operated during the year ending June 30, 1923, on $74,986.63 out of a total appropriation of $80,000. An unexpected balance of $182.95 existed at the end of the fiscal year 1923. The report covered the terms of office of J. A. Scott, Pikeville; and the present commission consisting of John R. Lewis, Louisville; Rainey T. Wells, Murray, and L. R. Davis, Hopkinsville.

The report pointed out that the duties have increased so much during the last year that additional office assistants will be required to operate the office efficiently in the future. "Were it not for the special and particular efficiency and experience of these employees," the report states, "it would be a practical impossibility to operate this department of the state government with the number of employees in its service." The report shows that in the year 1918 the assessment for ad valorem purposes was $1,403,978,050, which produced a revenue of $5,461,967. The assessment in 1923 was $1,933,386,377, with a revenue of $7,610,229.

Since the organization of the Tax Commission the legislature has added to its duties the collection of the oil production tax, inheritance tax, motor vehicle license and gasoline tax. A mineral survey also has been conducted by the commission, the report states.

Field workers have brought in thousands of dollars to the state treasury through investigations, 4,227 reports on inheritances alone having been made. The whole department is conducted efficiently and all records are in perfect condition, the inspector states.

BUTTER AND BARLEY PAY

SCHOOL COSTS IN OELDE

Associated Press

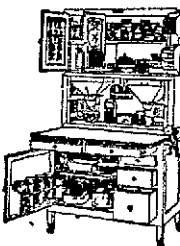

MUNSTER, Germany, Oct. 12.—The school system of the little Westphalian town of Oelde, near here, has been placed almost entirely upon a butter-barley basis.

Pupils pay their high school fees in fats and grain which in turn are "spent" for school maintenance purposes. Children from Oelde are assessed a pound of butter monthly, while pupils from this country districts may pay either in butter or barley, forty pounds of barley a month. The proceeds thus collected have gone to assist in buying the school's winter coal supply and to reimburse, in part, the teachers who gratefully receive butter or barley in preference to the constantly depreciating paper mark.

WORLD COURT WEEK IN NOV.

were the policies and desires of the many nations and peoples, new and old, great and small.

"Five weary years have passed since the armistice. It has become clear to most that the final establishment of permanent peace between the nations will be national and international education, through willingness of nations to make concessions one to another, through desire for helpful international co-operation, and through the creating by constructive statesmanship of the instruments and agencies of a world peace system.

"During these five years, at least two important steps have been taken toward this goal, in which the United States has participated, one the Washington Conference on Limitation of Armament, the other the Permanent Court of International Justice.

"At the Washington Conference agreements were reached by the principal powers to limit for a period of years their respective naval building programs. Already many hundreds of millions of dollars have been saved to the people of the nations and have been diverted to useful and constructive purposes. But of more importance than the money saved the removal of misunderstanding, the quieting of fears, and the development of a spirit of mutual confidence between the powers bordering on the Pacific.

Old Nations in World's Court

"By the establishment of the Permanent Court of International Justice, January, 1922, many nations have taken a significant step forward toward the situation of justice through law for injustice through the violence of war. For the full success, however, of this World Court, it is imperative that all the principal nations should be its active supporters. America's presence as a member of the Court is particularly important, if not indeed essential. 'The Court will not abolish war,' said President Harding at Salt Lake City, 'but it is the longest and most practicable step in that direction taken thus far in the history of the world.' Membership in the World Court does not commit any nation participating in its decisions to the slightest foreign entanglement or to any possible future wars.

"In the movement for the establishment of a world court of justice, American constructive statesmanship took the lead through several decades and American citizens played a distinguished part in the creation of the World Court recently established and now functioning at the Hague. Nevertheless, America is not yet a member of the Court. It is, however, increasingly apparent that the full success of the Court depends upon its cordial support by the United States, and its success is most important, for the hope for permanent peace throughout the world is vitally connected with the effective working of this Court.
